

Document 2: AI Concepts Summary

Artificial intelligence allows computers to mimic human behavior by learning from data. It involves technologies such as deep learning, natural language understanding, and image recognition. Through these methods, AI systems process information and generate intelligent actions automatically.